Hello Mary,

Thank you for writing to us and apologies for the delay in getting back to you.

Given your special circumstances, I have requested Etsy to retract the notices sent against your account. I will send you another update once Etsy gets back to us.

However, please note that this is not a permission to sell any more items containing any copyrighted images or trademarks from any BBC show, including but not limited to Bluey, Hey Duggee and Dr Who. If you have any items on your store related to these brands, please delete them as soon as possible. I would also recommend not uploading any further designs that contain copyrighted images or trademarks without the authorisation of the rights owners as that may lead to your account being reported again.

This retraction is being offered at our discretion given your special circumstances, and we reserve the right to report any further items if we find them to be infringing on the rights of our clients.

Best wishes
